CZOLGOSZ

Collapses When Taken to the New York Prison at Auburn.

Regrets His Cowardly Deed.

Says He Would Not Advise Others to Read the Demoralizing Doctrines of Anarchism.

Assaulted by a Mob at the Depot in Auburn.

Auburn, N. Y., Sept. 27.—Leon Czolgosz, the murderer of President McKinley, arrived at the state prison here this morning in a state of collapse and he now says he regrets having killed the president. As he was being hustled from the train fifteen hundred people rushed up and the twenty police were unable to defend the assassin from some of the blows that were aimed at him. As Czolgosz reached the prison steps his legs gave way beneath him and moaning and shrieking he was carried into the prison office where he was revived with a drink of brandy. Later, in his cell, he had regained his stolid indifference which characterized him during the trial in Buffalo.

SAYS IT WAS A MISTAKE
And the Murderer Will Not Advise
Young Men to the Anarchists.

Special by wire to Times-Democrat.
Auburn, Sept. 27.—In a copy-righted interview today the Evening Times quoted Czolgosz as saying regarding the assassination: "Yes, I think it was a mistake. A miracle could have been made last month I would have done it, but I think I did my duty and hope that I will have sufficient courage to meet my fate without being ashamed of it." When asked if he would advise the young men to read anarchistic literature, the life of which led him to commit the crime, Czolgosz said he would advise them to read the Bible.

DISTRESS
Of the Assassin Became Evident
When He Was Sentenced.

Buffalo, Sept. 27.—Leon P. Czolgosz, the assassin of President McKinley, was sentenced to be electrocuted in Auburn state prison during the week beginning Oct. 23, 1901. Before sentence was passed the assassin evinced a desire to speak but could not get his voice above a whisper, and his words were repeated to the court by his counsel. "There was no one else but me," the prisoner said in a whisper. "No one else told me to do it, and no one paid me to do it. I was not told anything about the crime and I

MOTHER
And Three Children Drowned in a Well.

Special by wire to Times-Democrat.
Northfield Center, O., Sept. 27.—Mrs. Perry Curtis and her three little children were found drowned in a well this morning. Mrs. Curtis was only recently released from an asylum and believed she drowned her children and herself. Her husband was away from home at the time.

The Weather.

Washington, Sept. 27.—Ohio, fair and warmer tonight and Saturday.

South American Situation.
Williamsburg, Island of Curacao, Sept. 27.—The Venezuelan gunboat Restaurador, formerly the American yacht Santa, arrived here, coasted and returned to Maracaibo. An emissary to President Castro from an influential Venezuelan official at Maracaibo passed through here. The emissary is expected to persuade President Castro to refrain from taking aggressive action on the frontier, but to hold the Venezuelan side ready to repel a Colombian advance should it be made. It is reported here that Venezuela is actively recruiting in the state of Carabobo, and that the Venezuelan intend sending 3,000 men with arms and ammunition to guard the frontier on the Guajira peninsula.

NATIONAL Memorial Association was Incorporated Today.

Special by wire to Times-Democrat.
Columbus, Sept. 27.—The McKinley National Memorial Association was incorporated today by Judge Wm. R. Day, Wm. A. Lynch and other prominent Cantonites. Its purpose is to erect a suitable memorial tomb at Canton to McKinley and any surplus funds are to be used in erection of a memorial at Washington.

George Dixon Lost.
St. Louis, Sept. 27.—Benny Yanger of Chicago gained the decision here over George Dixon, former feather weight champion of the world, in 15 rounds of fast fighting. Yanger was the aggressor throughout, punishing Dixon severely about the body. Dixon's blows lacked steam, and it was only his ring generalship that saved him from a knockout.

Threatening Letters.
Muncie, Ind., Sept. 27.—Farmer John Barnhart reports to the police that he is receiving threatening letters. They demand that he leave $350 under a stone at a crossroads. The first letter says a failure to comply will result in the dynamiting of his home. The next is that his boy will be killed with a shot. Barnhart is frightened.

United Action Against Turkey.

Paris, Sept. 27.—The Courier du Soir, which is usually well informed, makes the following sensational statement: "One of the results of the conference between Emperor Nicholas and President Loubet, M. Waldeck-Rousseau and M. Delcasse, during the czar's visit to France, is an exchange of views between European cabinets, now progressing, with the object of arriving at an understanding as to action against Turkey. Germany's concurrence is assured, as Emperor William has consented, but Count von Buelow has raised objection to some of the details of the action proposed, thus necessitating a further reference to the other governments before a final decision can be reached."

Distress at Cape Nome.
Washington, Sept. 27.—The war department is investigating stories which have reached Washington to the effect that there is danger of great suffering and calamity at Cape Nome unless steps are taken at once to remove destitute members of the mining community. The department has issued instructions that the transport Egbert be put in readiness for immediate service, but sailing orders are withheld until the officials can satisfy themselves that the government is not being imposed upon in the matter.

Jumped From a Train.
Frankfort, Ind., Sept. 27.—A sensation was created in the circuit court when Sheriff Carus reported that Marvel Vertchbaugh, one of the four prisoners with whom the sheriff started to Jeffersonville Wednesday morning, had escaped by slipping his handcuffs off and jumping from a Moon train near Westfield while the train was running at full speed. Vertchbaugh is a desperate character and had terrorized the community of Rossville for the past year.

SPARK
Ignited the Fumes

Ten Workmen
Were Blown Skyward
by the Explosion.

Six, and Possibly Seven, of the Men were Killed in the Accident.

Three Workmen Had Been Overcome by Gas and Rescuers were at Work When the Explosion Occurred.

New York, Sept. 27.—Six men and possibly seven were killed and seven injured by the explosion of an oil tank of the Essex & Hudson Gas company at Newark, N. J. The known dead are: Lawrence Kirch, employed in the works; William Meyer; Otto Newman, foreman at the works; Alfred Snyder, Jersey City; Nicholas Miller, unidentified man. Many witnesses say there is a body in the river, as they saw it buried high in the air and thrown in that direction. The tank which exploded was one of a number of immense steel reservoirs which was undergoing its periodical cleaning, it having been emptied of its oil. The tank was 20 feet deep and Kirch and Meyer entered through the manhole without first taking the precaution of having ropes tied about them. They were immediately overcome by the fumes. Foreman Newman saw this and started down after them after shouting a warning to the other workmen in the yard. He, too, collapsed in the tank.

Nicholas Miller, a groceryman near by, had once been a foreman at the works. He was in the yards and at once assumed charge of the rescue. Summoning others, the men began with chisels to cut a large ring in the tank. It is supposed one of the chisels in striking the steel caused the emission of a spark, for instantly there was an explosion like that of a cannon and then a sheet of flame.

Ten men were on top of the tank at the time. They were swept away in all directions. Miller, Snyder, the unidentified man and the one supposed to be in the river seem to have borne the brunt of the terrific shock. The three first mentioned were not badly mangled, but not a bone in their frames was left unbroken, says the county physician, this fact being due to their being blown many feet into the air and the force with which they struck the ground. The tank was rent in twain, and after all was over the bodies of the three men in it were taken out. The gas and other tanks in the yard were surrounded by flames for a short time, but none exploded, and the firemen had little to do. Ambulances soon conveyed the injured to a hospital.

London Disappointed.
London, Sept. 27.—The failure of the yachts to cover the course in time to constitute a race has created general disappointment in Great Britain, but chagrin at the poor showing of Shamrock II, overshadowed all other expressions of feeling. The great submarine population of London was kept advised of the progress of events by pyrotechnics at the Alexandra and Crystal palaces on the north and south sides of the city. Among the

With What He Encountered Yester-

ations the Boats Will Contest Again Tomorrow.

Special by wire to Times-Democrat.

Highlands of Navesink, N. J., Sept. 27.—The Columbia and Shamrock lay quietly at their moorings in Horse Shoe today. Some slight alterations were made on Columbia's mastsail but beyond that there was no change made in either of the yachts. Captain Synmore said regarding yesterday's contest: "Talk about your flukes on the Clyde; they were nothing to that of yesterday. An east wind is like a cat with nine lives. For a long time there was only 10 seconds between the boats. I can't understand how Columbia went so fast without any air." Sir Thomas Lipton was as sanguine of lifting the cup as ever today. The boats will race again tomorrow.

SHAMROCK
Not Considered Speedy Enough to Win the American's Cup.

New York, Sept. 27.—One of the biggest crowds that ever put down was down to Sandy Hook lightship to witness Sir Thomas Lipton's second challenger, Shamrock II, and the white flyer Columbia, which successfully defended the old American cup against his first trophy hunter two years ago, struggle for the yachting supremacy of the world in the first of the cup races of 1901. But the excursion here returned disappointed. The great singlestickers went out fresh for the battle, but the sea refused them a field of conflict. The wind, never more than nine and sometimes as low as three knots, was too light and shifty to carry the contestants over the 20 mile course in the time allotted by the rules. At the end of five and a half hours, the prescribed time, the race was officially declared off and the yachts were towed to their berths inside Sandy Hook. When the sun shone the committee boat was fired to call attention to the signal declaring the race off, the American yacht was still seven miles from the finish line. The Englishman was hard down astern of her, the experts estimating her distance behind the Columbia at over three-quarters of a mile. Americans will have reason to congratulate themselves upon the result of the first trial. The yacht which carried J. P. Morgan's private signal, a blue pennant with a yellow maltese cross to victory two years ago, was headed, but once in the 23 miles covered, when the Englishman showed the way for only five minutes.

Columbia's superiority in light air appears to have been demonstrated. Shamrock II did not, in fact, make as good a showing as did Lipton's first challenger in the half dozen tacks that preceded the actual races two years ago. What Shamrock II may be able to do in heavy weather is, of course, problematical, but Columbia has been tried, and all her admirers insist that she is distinctively a heavy weather boat.

When seen on board the Erin after the race, Sir Thomas Lipton said: "It was not a satisfactory race, because the wind was so erratic. I hope we shall have better luck next time. A race sailed on such a day, if it can be finished at all, depends upon the lucky chance position, as to the wind, of one boat or the other. I was never more hopeful of the Shamrock than I am now. I am confident I shall get the cup. I have never seen any more skillful handling of a boat than was shown by Captain Barr of the Columbia. Shamrock, too, was well managed."

London Disappointed.
London, Sept. 27.—The failure of the yachts to cover the course in time to constitute a race has created general disappointment in Great Britain, but chagrin at the poor showing of Shamrock II, overshadowed all other expressions of feeling. The great submarine population of London was kept advised of the progress of events by pyrotechnics at the Alexandra and Crystal palaces on the north and south sides of the city. Among the masses gathered on the embankment the keenest disappointment was evinced. Evidently they had expected the challenger to outdo the defender under any conditions. The sporting clubs announce a very small amount of interest. King Edward displayed great interest and was kept posted as to every movement of the yachts.

Columbia the Favorite.
New York, Sept. 27.—Numerous wagers on the yacht races were reported in Stock Exchange circles. Most of them were at odds of 10 to 8 on Columbia, but as good as 10 to 7 was offered at different times. No very large bets were announced, although Columbia money is offered in almost any amount. One brokerage firm offered to wager any part of $1,000 even that Shamrock would not win two races of the series. About $4,000 was placed on Columbia at 5 to 3 1/2. Most of this money was taken in $100 and $200 lots. One broker said he had $5,000 to bet even against Shamrock's winning two of the races. On the curb as good as 10 to 6 1/2 was offered on Columbia with no takers.

Press Comment.
London, Sept. 27.—The newspapers express the keenest disappointment. The Daily Mail and Daily Graphic, The Morning Post and The Standard, all contend that the weather conditions were too fluky to justify any verdict on the ultimate performances, but even these journals are not very hopeful of the ability of the challenger to "lift" the cup, and they admit that her performance was very disappointing. The other papers virtually abandon hope.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—The Circuit Court decree today gave a divorce to Geo. Pullman's wife, who before their marriage was Miss Lynne Fernald. Mrs. Pullman gets $1,000 a year alimony. She charged desertion but testimony was introduced showing Pullman's relations with Mrs. Blanche Bowers, the wife of the noted song writer, with whom Pullman went to New York to live. Bowers has sued Pullman for $100,000 for alienation of his wife's affections and Mrs. Bowers, who has been put aside by Pullman, also threatens to make trouble.

Boy's Airship Failed.
Roland, Ky., Sept. 27.—"That machine would take me clear to heaven if I wanted to go," exclaimed 15-year-old Bert Somerville, speaking of his new flying machine. He flew from the top of a stable successfully, then announced his intention of sailing from the top of a 100-foot cliff. His father was sent for to stop the dangerous experiment. The youngster heard of the old man's coming. "Goodby," shouted the boy. "I'm off for heaven," and he jumped from the top of the cliff. His mangled body was picked up at the bottom of the cliff. He lay dead, wrapped in the wings of his airship that had failed.

Funeral of Judge Wilson.
Washington, Sept. 27.—Funeral services over the remains of the late Jeremiah M. Wilson, chief counsel for Admiral Schley, and one of the best known lawyers in the country, were held at the Church of the Covenant. The large church was filled with a representative Washington audience, including many persons prominent in official life and also well-known civilians. The Rev. Dr. Francis Hamilton read the burial service of the Presbyterian church and briefly extolled the many virtues of the dead.

SCHLEY'S

Report of the Great Naval Victory Off the Coast of Cuba

Was Displaced by Sampson's.

It is Just Now Made Public and is One of the Proofs That the Brooklyn Bore the Brunt of That Great Naval Battle.

Special by wire to Times-Democrat.
Washington, Sept. 27.—In the court today Capt. Wise admitted that he did not direct Capt. Sigbee to give Admiral Schley information regarding the whereabouts of the Spanish fleet.

Lieutenant Wood of the torpedo boat Dupont, then took the stand and said that the torpedo boats were on picket line close into Cienfuegos harbor, but were often forgotten during the war. This was in refutation of the testimony of Capt. Wise, who said there was no picket line arranged by Schley off Cienfuegos. Lieut. Wood seemed to feel that the torpedo boats had never received their just dues in the war records.

Mr. Hanna, who is assisting the Judge advocate Lemley said at this point that there was a question as to correctness of the translation of Admiral Schley's "disobedience of orders" dispatch and that while he would not discuss it now he would take it up later in detail and show that the dispatch was correctly translated from the code.

Verbal instructions to Schley sent through Hood were that Schley should arrive off Santiago May 24, if possible. Lemley then asked what Sampson said to Hood before he left, but this was ruled out. Regarding this Lemley said "by raising technical points and trying to restrict testimony, Admiral Schley, who asked for judgment of his brother officers on his conduct in the Santiago campaign, virtually withdraws his application for court of inquiry." The court ruled that Hood could not give testimony as to conversation with Sampson before leaving him, but might repeat any verbal instruction Sampson directed him to take to Schley.

Washington, Sept. 27.—That Schley was not the first to communicate the news of the battle at Santiago is said to be the fault of Lieut. Sears, of his staff, to whom he gave a cablegram. Sampson's lieutenant, Stanton, appeared at the cable office at the same time with Sampson's message, and as Sampson was the senior officer Sears thought Sampson's message and not Schley's should go. Every one knows Sampson's message which began "Fleet under my command etc."

Admiral Schley's message is just made public and it reads as follows: "Santiago, July 3, 1898. Secretary of Navy, Washington. The Spanish squadron came out of Santiago harbor this morning, July 3, at 3:30 and were all captured or destroyed in a running fight to the westward or about three and one-half hours. There were very few casualties in our fleet. Ellis, Chief Yeoman, killed, and one man wounded on the Brooklyn. Reports from other ships not in yet. Commander in chief now superintending the transfer of prisoners from the Cristobal Colon which surrounded the Brooklyn and Oregon at 1:15 p. m. The victory is complete. Details later. Several water tight compartments of the Brooklyn are filled with water; were probably pierced or strained.

Who was Believed to be Dead
Returned to Life.

As was stated by the Times-Democrat last evening, messages were received in this city yesterday announcing that Mrs. K. McGinnis, of west Wayne street, this city, had died from a stroke of paralysis at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fred Kline, at North Baltimore. The sad news was conveyed to the Times-Democrat by relatives of Mrs. McGinnis and last evening later word was received announcing that the "paralysis patient" had revived and although still unconscious and beyond hope of recovery, she was still alive at last reports. Mrs. McGinnis' son, Scott, of the Solar Refining Co., offices, received an announcement of his mother's death and went to North Baltimore last evening believing that death had ensued. The suburbanite knows his station in life, but sometimes he is carried beyond it.

BIG DEAL

Made in the Bowling Green Field.

Some Good Wells Drilled in Recently

In That Field Which Increase the Value of Producing Territory.

Important Meeting on October 8th.

One of the largest deals in oil property made here for some time, says a dispatch from Bowling Green, was consummated today. C. A. Ulls bought 80 acres of land in section 15, Henry township, for a consideration of $20,000. There are several wells on this property and quite a bit of machinery, all of which is included in the sale. This makes over $40,000 worth of oil property now owned in Wood county by Mr. Ulls, all of which he has purchased in the last few weeks.

North Baltimore is Luck. Operations about North Baltimore have been quite successful of late, several good wells having been secured within the last few days. Two 200-barrel wells have been drilled by the Ohio Oil company. One is No. 26 on the B. A. Lawrence farm in Henry township and the other is No. 16 on the Cooke farm in Bloontownship. Both wells are credited with a 200 barrel production at the start. Ed. Niece has cleaned out and shot an oil well near Denver, which he thinks will increase his production considerably. The Natsong Oil company, which leased into prominence a year or so ago by drilling in a number of good wells on the Lyons farm near North Baltimore, is putting up a rig for the fifth well. Members of the National Oil and Gas Workers are looking forward to the annual meeting of the association at North Baltimore, on October 8. It is said that important changes are to be made in the constitution of the association.

When One Goes For Months Without Getting a Good Night's Sleep, Relief is Sweet.

Take away sound refreshing sleep and you rub nature of its most necessary requirement. Feeding and building up time, that's why so many people find their standard of strength waning when they cannot sleep well, one symptom after another creeps in and serious ailments follow that is what makes so many feel and look older than they are. The perfecting of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills is a revelation to this kind. Mr. S. P. Kohn, of 214 Jackson street, Lima, Ohio, says: "The ability of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills to give quiet, steady nerves and restful sleep is most marked. I needed both these qualities and got a box of the medicine at Melville's drug store and used them with complete success, sleeping well and feeling strong and steady as a result of their use."

SIX COUPLE

Were Married in as Many Hours in Delphos.

A dispatch from Delphos says: Delphos was a veritable Gretna Green yesterday and within six hours six different couples were married. The first was George Wolff, Jr., and Miss Mary Morketter, married at the Catholic church at 7 a. m. At 8 a. m. Dr. J. E. Stofinas and Miss Katie Raabe, of Ft. Jennings, were united at the residence of Rev. Fr. M. Arnold. At 8:30 a. m. Rev. Fr. Mertes married Charles Sallet and Miss Elizabeth Wurst, both of Ottoville. At 10 a. m. at the Lutheran church, Rev. J. J. Weiss officiated at the marriage of Dr. Christian Storz and Miss Pauline C. Lotterer, of Toledo. At noon, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Heywood, Miss Madge Miller became the bride of W. H. Roberts, a real estate dealer, both of Chicago. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. O. Raber, of the Presbyterian church. At 2 p. m. at the home of the parents of the bride, Rev. E. F. Gamble, of the M. E. church, married Miss Lulu F. Long and Abram Ashbaugh, Dr. Storz and his bride will spend their honeymoon in Cincinnati.

KAGY'S CHANCES

Are Very Good for Election in Thirty-third District.

The Cincinnati Enquirer today says: "We are having a sharp race for State Senator in our district, the Thirty-third," remarked Mr. Row, the Ottawa (Ohio) shoe merchant, at the Gibson. "Between J. R. Kagy, Democrat, of Findlay, and C. P. Coffey, of Putnam county." The district is composed of the counties of Putnam, Hardin, Fulton and Wood. The Democrats have in a full vote probably 600 or 700 majority in the district, which makes it pretty close when a hard fight is on, as it is now. Putnam gives about 2,500 Democratic majority, as much majority as there are Republican votes in the county. I am a Republican, but am inclined to the belief that Kagy will be elected. I don't know of any Democratic disaffection in our section, and the state ticket is strong. On the other hand, the Republicans seem to be in fine trim for a fight, and there will be lots of fun for the boys between this and election."

INDIAN HARBOR AN ISLAND.

E. C. Benedict, It Is Said, Will Cut It Off From the Mainland.

The point of land owned by E. C. Benedict and known as Indian Harbor may soon become an island, according to a dispatch from Greenwich, Conn., to the New York Times. The purchase of the properties of William Rupp and Eugene Tompkins is said to be for the purpose of getting the land required to make a canal and a lake that will turn Commodore Benedict's possessions into an island.

On one side of Mr. Benedict's place is Smith's cove and on the other side Indian harbor. Each runs up to a small inlet. Between these two inlets, at the north of the Benedict estate, is a marsh a half mile long. This is the property just purchased and which engineers have been looking over with the view of transforming it into a beautiful lake whose water will be supplied by the two harbors.

Mr. Benedict to improve his surroundings purchased the homes of his fishermen neighbors and moved them to Orchard place. The sanitary conditions of this street are now so bad that the town officials have been petitioned for a sewer. The only way that the sewer could be built was through the marshy land and then on to Indian Harbor, where it would find an outlet near the Benedict mansion in the harbor, which Mr. Benedict had dredged out for his yacht. The purchase of this marshy land and the cottages on it does away with the possibility of a sewer there.

HAPPY EVENT

Was the Meyer-Huntton Wedding at Ada Yesterday.

The Groom Received Many Useful Presents from the Members of His Congregation.

Concerning the Meyer-Huntton wedding, an account of which was published by the Times-Democrat yesterday, a letter from Ada says:

"A very pretty home wedding of special interest to may Lima people took place at eleven o'clock yesterday in Ada; it being the marriage of Miss Elizabeth R., daughter of Mrs. Margaret Meyer to the Rev. Charles K. Huntton, pastor of the First English Lutheran church of Columbus.

The bride was dressed in white muslin de sole trimmed with pearls and apalache lace. She was attended by Miss Grace Hunton, sister of the groom, the groomsmen being Mr. Charles Meyer, brother of the bride.

The ceremony was performed by the use of the beautiful liturgy of the Lutheran church; the Rev. J. H. Huntton, father of the groom, officiating, assisted by Rev. W. L. Huntton, of Chicago, brother of the groom, and the Rev. J. Ash, of Ada, the bride's pastor. A wedding luncheon was served, after which, Rev. and Mrs. Huntton departed for a wedding tour which will include a trip up the lakes, through the straits of Mackinac. Later they will visit in Lima attending the meeting of the General Council of the Lutheran church; returning to Columbus about the middle of October.

Several checks, one quite large, the gift of Rev. Huntton's congregation in Columbus, also a number of beautiful presents were received. The guests were limited to the immediate families who will long remember the day as happy and auspicious as it was bright and beautiful."

Fast Mile by Cresceus.

Philadelphia, Sept. 27.—Cresceus, the king of trotters, failed to lower his record of 2:02½, made at Columbus Aug. 2, in a trial on the Belmont Driving club course at Narberth, a suburb of this city. The great son of Robert McGregor stepped the mile in 2:04½ without a skip, and thereby reduced the track record of 2:05½ made by Alx on Nov. 7, 1894. Everything was conducive to fine time. The track was lightning fast and there was not enough breeze to interfere with the progress of the great trotter. There were nearly 8,000 persons present.

Of Groceries from De-

of Mr. and Mrs. Engle—Social and Personal Notes of Interest.

For the past two weeks a south Lima grocer has been the victim of what seems to be a well arranged plot to rob him. Frequently in the past few days he has been requested to deliver orders at a house on St. Johns avenue near the railroad. While the delivery boy was taking in the goods some one would remove groceries from the wagon. At first the thefts were small but recently they have increased. Yesterday while the wagon was standing at the usual place several dollars were taken in a few minutes. An effort has been made to detect the guilty persons but without success. Not the slightest clue exists, the grocer being at a loss to know how to proceed. The matter has been reported to an officer, who is working on the case.

Upon the occasion of her fifteenth birthday anniversary, Mrs. A. Miller, wife of patrolman Miller, was surprised at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Engle, on Harrison avenue. The evening was one of pleasure to all concerned. Usual party entertainments were enjoyed. Refreshments were served.

Rev. W. H. Leatherman, with the delegation from here attending the annual session of the Ohio conference being held at Ada, have an opportunity of enjoying an unusually interesting program, consisting of addresses by Bishop Walden, Dr. G. R. Davis, besides several other church notables.

Rev. Davis will speak of the siege of Peking, China, of which he was an eye witness. At this conference the ministerial appointments will be made. Many admirers of Rev. Leatherman fear he may not be returned to the pastorate of Grace church. During his several years service here, his work has attracted more than local attention there being several churches in different parts of Ohio anxious to become their pastor. Owing to this demand for the popular minister, south Lima's opportunities of having him returned are greatly lessened. His congregation will await with interest the assignments by the Bishop.

Possibly the best plan for President Roosevelt, Senator Hanna and other commanding men in the republican party would be to say almost nothing till the country has had a little more time to recover from the calamity which it encountered in the murder of William McKinley. It is not yet easy to discuss affairs in their real bearing.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Consolidation of iron and steel in terests in Europe, following the American example, is already on the industrial carpet. English capital is backing a new steel trust at Bilbao, Spain, where the finest ores in the old world are found in abundance, and whence supplies of iron and steel to the amount of 500,000 tons annually may be readily drawn.

Concerning the throwing of additional safeguards around our presidents Senator Hanna talks sense when he says:

"No man in public life can be safe if any man form the resolve to surrender his own life to kill him. Our presidents must continue to move among the people in democratic simplicity and freedom. Their only protection is in popular respect and affection."

The Sobley court of inquiry has thus early in its progress demonstrated the faulty mathematics of high naval officers in their statement as to how long a given supply of coal would last under a certain rate of consumption, revealed particularly poor memories on the part of other naval officers and shown an appalling inability on the part of such officers to estimate distances by water. If the witnesses should undertake to train their guns at an enemy on their own estimates of distance they would bore the sea full of holes, while the enemy would be secure.

The Newark Advocate thinks that some of the people who are going to stamp out anarchy in the United States by restricting immigration will be disagreeably surprised later on when they discover that the great protected industries do not intend to have their cheap labor supply cut off in this or in any other manner. The protection of "American industry" requires a constant supply of "American labor" which can be had only in those regions in Europe where the people are accustomed to conditions of life far below any that obtain in America outside of the protected industries. To shut off this immigration would compel the tariff-favored trusts to employ Americans at American wages, and this they will not do.

A statement of losses by the late steel strike puts that of the men at $10,000,000 and of the steel corporation at $15,000,000. The average number of men idle during the two and a half months was 50,000. On this question of losses by strikes, Carroll D. Wright, the United States commissioner of statistics, computes that for the twenty years ending December 31, 1900, there was a total loss by strikes and lockouts of not less than $468,988,581. Of this sum, Mr. Wright's calculation is that the strikes cost the workmen $274,000,000, and employers $122,000,000. The lockouts cost labor $52,000,000 and employers nearly $20,000,000. These totals are for 22,793 strikes and 1,005 lockouts. In half the strikes and lockouts the workmen failed to gain their ends.

By His Conscience This Christian,

A Member of the Christian Catholic Church,

Sends His Twenty-five Cents Admission Fee with the Interest Which was Due the Fair Board for Ten Years.

One of the most astonishing cases of a heavy conscience, and about as sweeping an instance of reform that has ever been recorded, is made known through a public confession by a Findlay advocate of the church of Zion. The acknowledgement came through a letter written to A. E. Schaffer, secretary of the Auglaize county fair, who is acting as one of the judges in Lima this week, and while the writer signs his name to the letter it is by request of Mr. Schaffer, who appreciates the sincerity of the man, that it is omitted in the publication. The letter reads as follows:

Sidney, O., Sept. 24.

A. E. Schaffer,

Secretary Auglaize Co. Fair.

Dear Sir:—Ten years ago I attended your county fair and defrauded the association out of 25 cents, my admission fee, for which I am sorry. This may seem a small matter to you, but to me it means much. God is my judge, and as I am a Christian and a member of the Christian Catholic church in Zion, which teaches deep repentance and restoration, it is my duty before God to restore this money and humbly ask pardon for the wrong. Enclosed find 25 cents which is the amount with interest, which you will please turn over to the company with confession. It is hardly necessary for me to sign my name, but as I have a sort of contempt for anonymous letters I will sign my name.

Do "Soft Heads" Talk About You?

Pay no attention to what the public may have to say to your every day acts, but "beware to the line and let the chips fall where they may." When a man has reached that point in life where the public ceases to pull the silk hair on the pig hat of his reputation the wrong way of the leader, he may expect to be advised by telephone at any time that the horses are hitched to the golden chariot that will take him on his long and never returning ride. And whenever a woman can rest assured that she has not been criticised for what she has, or what she has not done, or that the pure white ostrich feathers of some good act has not been called in question by others whose own millinery may need moth balls, she can begin to tune her harp, for it will soon be her time to play in the big orchestra.—EX.

DIEDRICK'S NEW PLAN.

Peary Expedition Surgeon to Dash For the Pole Alone.

ESKIMOS ARE TO ACCOMPANY HIM

Secret of His Leaving the Erik at Etah in the Far North on the 24th of Last August Revealed in a Letter to One of His Friends—The Doctor's Insanity Denied.

"If I succeed in reaching the pole on my own hook and return alive, I will bring you some kind of a souvenir." This startling announcement was written by Dr. T. S. Diedrick in the Eskimo village of Etah on Aug. 24, the day he left the Peary polar expedition steamship Erik and refused to return, says the New York Journal.

It was addressed to Rodman P. Cummins, a cigar manufacturer of Washington, N. J., the doctor's home, and is the first announcement of his plans in leaving the Peary expedition. Men interested in that venture and on the ship at the time say he is mad and that a sense of duty to the expedition prevented him from leaving the frozen north until the expedition had won or otherwise ended the journey.

Here is proof that the doctor intends to brave the risks of a dash over the wastes of snow and the ice packs that have hitherto proved insurmountable barriers to those hardy enough to venture on the quest amply supplied and abundantly aided.

Dr. Diedrick proposes to make the attempt alone save for the company of such Eskimos as he can win over to his project.

His friends in Washington, N. J., deny that the surgeon is mad, but say rather that he has made some discovery through the natives of a way to find the goal for which science has sacrificed so many lives and sunk so many fortunes. For three years he has lived among the Eskimos in that world of ice and eternal winter. He knows their language, and letters sent back previously show that he has made a study of their legends and folklore.

It is believed that there are natives who have reached the latitude of the pole, but none has ever shown intelligently the route followed. Perhaps Dr. Diedrick has learned from them how to reach it. At least his friends think he has.

They know he is not foolhardy and is a several level headed man and believe he would not enter upon so daring an enterprise unless the reward of success is a possibility. And yet, previous to the belief of Dr. Cook and the others on the Erik may be correct, and he is simply a madman, going to his death amid the merciless cold and biting blasts of the upper arctic circle.

Dr. Diedrick made an exhaustive study of the Arctic seas. He has been a close student of the subject for years and had expected to go with Peary in 1891. Dr. Diedrick was born in Millford, N. J., thirty-eight years ago. He is a graduate of Hahnemann Medical college in Philadelphia and ranks high in his profession.

J. B. R. Smith of the secretary of state's office in Trenton, N. J., is a personal friend of the doctor. He said: "All this talk about him being insane is nonsense. He is not the kind of man who goes insane and, having lived in the arctic circle for three years, is not likely to have his mind affected by the climate. He has the most powerful physique of any man I ever knew, and never met a man who was better mentally or morally. He is a man of strict integrity and a kindly disposition."

It is the opinion of his friends that he and Peary quarreled over a matter of precedence and that they were jealous of each other. Mrs. Diedrick seems to have aged since receiving the letter from her husband the other week. She cries constantly and declares her belief that her husband will not return alive.

FAIR

Has Proven a Big Winner.

A Banner Day

With Estimated Crowd of 15,000.

Races All were in Straight
Heats But were Interesting Events.

Paulding Boy Came Back to Lima and Repeated His Performance
During the Events of Last July.

The crowd of Wednesday proved to be a prediction of a record breaker yesterday. It only needs to be said that it was the banner day in the history of the fair, and there are, as near as the directors can conservatively estimate it, about 15,000 people who will back the statement. It was a moving sea of people and the attendance caused not a little speculation among the members of the board as to what would be necessary in the way of improvements for next year. Many suggestions were made, and with the encouragement received it is not unlikely that there will be changes before the fair in 1902 that will add greatly to the general appearance of the grounds. The pessimist may find fault—the generally does—but the popular opinion is that the visitors have been amply repaid and given a run for their money. Lima can earn the reputation of holding the "big" fair of northwestern Ohio if she wills and the start this year has been made toward that end.

The Races.

The two racing events yesterday speaking by way of comparison with the exciting pace of Wednesday afternoon, were lacking in interest as there was but one horse in both events that had the necessary amount of steam. Paulding Boy winning the 2:15 race and Honey Moon the 2:17 trot in straight heats.

There was considerable interest attached to the 2:15 pace which was to be finished, and as only the horses that had a heat to their credit were entitled to start, the card called for Mollie Knox, Lady C. Legal Wood and Chandler. The last named horse was drawn and the three left off with a good start. Mollie Knox had taken two heats Wednesday and she made short work of it by taking the first and deciding heat yesterday. It is the opinion of not a few that Lady C. could have beaten the daughter of Wilkie, but she had a cinch on second money and kept out of the lead to escape a new record. Mollie Knox was not averse to lowering her time and took the clip at 2:15 1/4, just a second faster than the best time made Wednesday. Mollie Knox won first money, Lady second, Legal Wood third, and Chandler got back on entrance fee.

The Trot.

Three well-known Lima horses started in the 2:17 trot, Honey Moon, Rose Gale and Ben Lobin, but the contest was between Rose Gale and Ben Lobin for second place. Honey Moon not caring much for their company. Phillips brought her to the wire easily in straight heats and the only change in positions was when Ben Lobin finished second while Rose Gale, after a spasm of dancing, got back to earth just in time to save her from the flag. Ben Lobin made a spurt in the second and got the pole for a minute, but Phillips sent the black mare round the outside and the gelding did a fancy turn with his front feet. The break at this time no doubt lost him second money as Rose Gale also left her stride just when she was giving Honey Moon a pretty chase.

The third heat was a walk away for Honey Moon and she had such a long leap that the crowd yelled for Phillips to lead her in.

2:17 trot—Purse $300.
Honey Moon, b m, J. W. Phillips, Lima, 1-1-1
Rose Gale, b m, C. G. King, Lima, 2-2-3
Ben Lobin, b g, W. N. Faurst, Lima, 3-3-2

Time—2:20 1/4; 2:23; 2:21.
The 2:15 Pace.
Two old local favorites, Bud Brown and Ima Dawson, made their bow again yesterday, and another horse that has taken kindly to the Lima track, C. O. Vogel's handsome Paulding Boy, were among the five starters in the 2:15 pace. Again but three heats were needed to divide the money and Paulding Boy got the big end of it. His last appearance in Lima was in the July races when he captured the purse in straight heats over Black Cecil, E. B. Deible's fast little mare from Wheeling, W. Va., but Ima Dawson forced him to the scratch three-quarters of a second faster, the best time yesterday being made in 1:34.

The first heat had the appearance of a double team race with Paulding Boy and Ima Dawson and Bud Brown and Ed O'Brien harnessed side by side on the first circuit. The rivals scattered at the three-quarter how-over, when Ima Dawson went to a break and dropped into fifth place at the finish, leaving Ed O'Brien to fight it out for second place where he landed, a sulky behind Paulding Boy and the same distance ahead of Chestnut Boy.

Starter Bloom had trouble in both the second and third heats in getting the field away, Paulding Boy being especially responsible for the delay. He proved to be a bad actor in scoring, leaving his feet repeatedly at critical moments, but with the word he had a settled action that was never varied from, and kept the tread from wire to wire. Ima Dawson came to the scratch accompanied by Ed O'Brien, and as the half was reached the three horses were side by side. Then Paulding Boy leaped out and left the bunch, finishing several lengths ahead in an easy drive.

It took seven scores to get away in the third and when the word was given the outsiders had the advantage over the pole horse. Ima Dawson slipped into the fence but hadn't the speed to hold it, and at the half Paulding Boy was going around her with an extra amount of speed that gradually overcame the Wilson mare, and he nosed under the wire a length ahead.

The Runners.

The half mile run, 2 in 3, brought out five jumpers. Athale being added to the card and Can Roberts drawn. Princes Podora, winner of third money in the dash of Wednesday was an easy winner. The jockey who rode Athale made a kick after the first heat and informed the judges that the trainer of Princes Podora had "chopped" her. In the vernacular of the race track that means that a pillow of gunpowder and certain chemicals had been administered to put new life into the mare. The judges had the mare examined by Dr. Blattenberg, but he was unable to discover any signs of her having been tampered with and she was permitted to start again. She won the second heat as easily as she won the first and Athale was handed in the "also ran" class. The summary shows the following result:

Half-mile run, 2 in 3—Purse $100.
Princes Podora, br m, E. Applegate, Cincinnati, 1-1-1

THE STAGE.

THE MURRAY COMEDY COMPANY.

The Murray Comedy company in "John Martin's Secret" drew a packed house last night. Every seat was taken, and the S. B. O. sign was out early. The performance fully sustained the artistic reputation of this capable company, and the satisfaction of the audience was evident by the almost continuous applause. The specialties were all good and the songs new and catchy.

Tonight the amateurs will compete for a special prize of $5.00, offered for the best amateur "turn." This is a great feature, and should not be missed.

Tomorrow afternoon a special matinee will be given, and tomorrow night the drawing for the $10.00 in gold will take place.

Tomorrow is Saturday, the day of the cake walk at the fair grounds.

Sweet rides at Townsend's.

Fears That Under Strict English Rules Some of His Best Horses' Victories Would Be Questioned—Desires to Improve American Tracks. Particularly Saratoga.

America's most powerful racing stable is to be devoted in future to the American turf, and its royal race horses will run under the colors of Mr. William C. Whitney.

Fear of trouble over entries abroad, which might unwittingly detract from the glory of the victories which he believes his horses deserve, together with the fact that he is unable to give the close personal attention he desires to racing abroad, has led Mr. Whitney to the resolution that he will abandon the foreign turf. He will devote his time and money and the abilities of his horses to the improvement of the American turf, desiring to give to Saratoga and other American tracks the best racing possible.

"It is true that I intend to withdraw from the British turf," Mr. Whitney said to a New York Herald reporter the other day. "I am sorry that this statement has been made because it is premature. But since it has been made I confirm it. It seems that some of our friends who did not know that there was anything private in a recent conversation have talked, and the gossip has gone so far that it is necessary to confirm it."

"Yankee, Blue Girl, Nanturum and perhaps Goldsmith and King Hanover or whatever horses might have been selected to make up the rest of the string I intended to send to England this fall will remain at home. My racing stable in England will be broken up. I shall order the good ones in the lot sent home, and those I do not care to keep will be sold on the other side. I have not decided which ones I shall keep and which shall be sold. I have sent no orders, and, indeed, this whole change of plan has come within the last few days."

"The English rule in regard to entries is very strict. It is much more rigidly enforced than it is in this country, and, while my partnership arrangement with other owners is well understood by the racing authorities here and shown by the records, I am fearful that they are not on the other side."

"I should not care to carry off the honors to which, I believe, my horses are entitled and are able to gain on the English tracks and then have my entries questioned and the honors clouded by a technicality. I have written a full explanation of my position to the authorities in England and had not intended to announce my decision until I had received a reply."

"I have not fully developed my new plans, and I cannot say absolutely that I will not again race in England, but my hopes and plans for the American turf, especially the Saratoga track, are well known. I have decided not to send my horses abroad and to break up my stable in England, but I have some engagements there for the future which I may decide to fulfill. They are too far in advance for me to undertake a decision concerning them at present. My plans have been entirely changed, and I have not considered them with enough care for me to announce in detail just what I shall do."

"My decision has been the outgrowth of many things. I like to see my horses run, and it has been impossible for me to attend the meetings abroad. My son, Harry Payne Whitney, was at the English tracks during the early part of this summer, but I was not able to see the victory of Volodyovski or the other horses. I am deeply interested in many turf plans, and I prefer to have my horses where I can see them run and personally enjoy the sport."

"I cannot say as yet what will be done in the case of Volodyovski. As is well known, the horse belongs to Lady Mex, and I only own the racing qualities of the animal. I have not decided what to do. There are many other good horses in my stable there, including Kilmarock, Elizabeth M., St. Charles and Elkhorn, who will probably be sent home, but I am not sure about any of these arrangements."

"My entries are all made on a credit basis and the accounts with the racing association balanced at intervals. The stakes and purses are left with them and entrance and forfeit money deposited in settlement. In this way it is possible that difficulties in question of ownership, through changes, may have arisen. I do not wish to run the risk of any disputes after my horses have won."

The recent case of the disqualification of Lenora Loring is said to be the immediate cause of Mr. Whitney's change of plan, in that it furnished an example of the disaster which might come from improper registration of ownership. This story was discredited because B. G. Thomas, the nominator of her dam, was not the owner at the time. Both Yankee and Blue Girl were nominated abroad by John E. Madden, and Mr. Whitney feared a like result.

A Methodist's Prophecy.

In 1893, while Dr. Daniel Steele was in Chicago giving Bible readings, he attended a course of lectures on "The Making of the West," given by Theodore Roosevelt, then United States civil service commissioner, and was so impressed with the young man and his remarkable knowledge and ability that he made this prediction to his wife: "The Zion Herald: That man will some day be president of the United States."

General Hernandez Said to Suffer Many Persecutions.

A Venezuelan, who arrived at New York a few days ago from Maracaibo, told a story of persecution about General Jose Manuel Hernandez, who is a political prisoner in Venezuela, says the Philadelphia Press. This story in some respects resembles the accounts of the treatment of Captain Dreyfus while imprisoned on Devil's Island.

General Hernandez, who is equally well known by the sobriquet "El Mocho" (the Maimed), because of a crippled arm, the result of bullet wounds, is the head of the Conservative party in Venezuela. He has led several revolutions against the Liberal governments of the republic. Something like two years ago he started a rebellion against President Cipriano Castro. General Hernandez was captured and incarcerated in San Carlos fort, at Maracaibo. He has been there since.

His political and military strength was recently shown in the organization of a revolutionary movement on the frontier under the leadership of General Rangel Garibay.

"Immediately following this," said the Venezuelan, "began the systematic attack on General Hernandez which his friends fear will end the veteran's career. The first move was to transfer him to the darkest dungeon in the foul smelling old fortress. A huge bull was fastened to his ankle. He is kept incommunicado—that is, no one is allowed to see him, nor is he permitted to communicate with the outside world. He is even denied the usual exercise about the prison yard. His keepers take a diabolical delight in throwing large live rats, spiders and other vermin into his dungeon, particularly when he sleeps."

To Nicholas Hernandez, twenty-four years old, the son of the general, who lives in New York city, was repeated this story of the treatment of his father. He said, "It has been some time since I have heard from my father, but from another source the same information has reached me."

YALE FESTIVAL EXHIBITS.

Collection of John Trumbull's Works and Yale Manuscripts.

Several collections that will be part of the Yale bicentennial are now being prepared by the university authorities at New Haven. There will be in the art school a nearly complete collection of the paintings of John Trumbull, the Revolutionary war soldier-artist, with the exception of the large canvases in the capitol at Washington and in various state capitols, says the New York Times. Yale already owns a considerable number of Trumbull's paintings, and these will be augmented by private loans. The Trumbull exhibit will open on Oct. 10 and remain open until a week after the celebration. In the music department there will be an interesting collection of old pianos and clavichords.

One of the most interesting and valuable exhibitions to be made will be that of Yale manuscripts and volumes bearing both on the history of Yale and on American education. This collection will take in all of the famous old books that were parts of the college curriculum from 1701 to 1850. In this connection there will be shown a collection of the early diplomas of Yale, commencing with the first one given to Nathaniel Channing of the class of 1702, which is covered in Durham County. The commencement medal is now being struck off by Tiffany & Co. of New York in honor of the celebration. The medal is designed by the artist Bela Pratt of Boston and will be presented to all of the distinguished visitors who visit New Haven in October. It is now anticipated that fully 6,000 Yale graduates and their friends will be in New Haven over the celebration, besides a large number of other visitors and the numerous collegiate guests of the president.

MUSIC FOE OF ANARCHY.

Teacher Says When Knowledge of It Is General Anarchism Will Cease.

A convention of choir masters and music teachers was held at Birmingham, England, the other day. The president, according to a cable dispatch from London to the New York Sun, prophesied that anarchism would die a sweet, natural death. He said: "The softening influence of music is so delightful that the time will come when the inability to sing from soul will be as extraordinary as the inability to read or write. When the spread of music has reached the required degree, anarchism will cease."

SIGNALLED BY CORMORANTS.

The Bell Rock lighthouse keepers had a singular experience the other day. Toward midnight, according to the London Globe, the Arbroath tugboat hove alongside and wanted to know what was wrong. The captain stated that the signal "Send boat immediately" had been shown. Explains the Globe, two cormorants, tired of fishing, had perched themselves on the signal pole in so peculiar a way that at Arbroath, twelve miles away, it appeared as if the distress signal had been hoisted.

To Convene on Mount Hood's Top.

A congress of the world's mountain climbers on the top of Mount Hood is proposed for 1903, says The Morning Oregonian. The movement is in the hands of a few of the energetic spirits of the Mazama society, headed by L. L. Hawkins. Negotiations will be opened at once with clubs in all parts of the world that are organized to climb mountains, and they will be invited to send representatives to Portland. No club will be considered unless its climbing has been done on mountains 10,000 feet in height or over.

Lincoln's Remains Viewed While Being Removed to the Final Resting Place.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 27.—The casket containing the remains of Abraham Lincoln was taken from its resting place in the monument to memorial hall, where it was opened and the remains viewed by state officers. The casket was then closed and removed to the new vault. Two feet of concrete protects the bottom of the casket. The excavation is 15 feet deep, 8 feet wide and 8 feet long. Surrounding the casket is a steel cage, around which will be placed a solid wall of concrete. The location of the former president's new resting place is immediately beneath where the sarcophagus rested. It is understood that the remains were in a bad state of preservation, but easily identified.

Mrs. McKinley's Condition.

Canton, O., Sept. 27.—Mrs. McKinley is doing just as well as any woman could under similar circumstances. Her strength is not all that could be desired, but she is doing just as well as could be expected. This was the expression of Dr. Rixey to a query as to the condition of Mrs. McKinley. The usual visit was paid to the cemetery and the usual country drive was taken. Mrs. McKinley usually proposes the cemetery visits, but generally the country drive is suggested by her friends and her acquiescence secured. These outings continue to be beneficial, promoting sleep and appetite.

Shooting Tourney Closes.

Cincinnati, Sept. 27.—The annual shooting tournament of the Cincinnati Gun club closed here, and the next meeting of the club will be held at Detroit, Oct. 1 to 4, inclusive. The grand target handicap at 100 targets for a purse of $800, with 94 entries, was the chief event of the day, and was won by Ira B. Post of Spencer, O., who killed 97 with a 17-yard handicap. L. J. Segler of Cincinnati surprised the crowd by defeating Eliot, Crosby, Helkes and other world-famous crack shots in other events.

Cried Himself to Death.

Laporte, Ind., Sept. 27.—Caleb Harvey, an old and wealthy resident of this city, died here as the direct result of grieving over the assassination and death of President McKinley. The physician who attended Harvey said that he literally cried himself to death. He wept for hours continuously from the afternoon the president was shot, and while in these paroxysms of grief his suffering was intense. It was found impossible to control or assuage his grief, and up to the hour of his dissolution he wept constantly.

Was Lincoln's Secretary.

Washington, Sept. 27.—Mr. John George Nicolay, private secretary to President Lincoln, and widely known as the author of several works on the life of the great war president, died at his residence here, aged 70. He had been in feeble health for several years, and since his resignation as marshal of the United States supreme court in 1887 he had been living quietly at his Washington home with his daughter.

Anarchists Exiled.

Rome, Sept. 27.—The Russian Prince Makachidze and his wife have been arrested as anarchists and will be conducted to the frontier. They entered Italy in defiance of the anti-anarchist regulations. The prince was condemned to death in Russia in 1887 for conspiracy against the czar, and was expelled from France in 1886 for making bombs.

Postoffice Robbed.

Washington, Sept. 27.—The post-office department was informed that the postoffice at Adairville, Ky., was burglarized. Money and stamps of an aggregate value of $400 were taken.

OVAATION

Tendered Col. Kilbourne, Democratic Candidate for Governor.

Purposely Avoided Politics

And Confined His Remarks to the General Air of Good Feeling and Prosperity Which Surrounds Him—Touching Tribute Paid to Dead President and Soldier.

Col. James Kilbourne, the Democratic candidate for governor of the state of Ohio, made his first visit to Lima yesterday, but he came as a distinguished citizen of the state—a personage whom all men delight to honor—and not in the garb of one who sought to take advantage of his position as an aspirant for political preference. In his speech before the vast crowd at the fair grounds, there was not a single reference to the position he occupied before the electors of the Buckeye state, but he confined his remarks almost entirely to the era of prosperity and the wonderful growth of the great northwest. The invitation that had been extended to Col. Kilbourne was identical with that sent to Governor Nash, but he latter was not in a position to respond.

When the Democratic candidate arrived he was met at the Erie depot by C. D. Crites, of the state committee, chairman Linderman of Delphos and other members of the executive committee, who escorted him to the fair grounds and turned him over to the board of directors. President Rustler addressed the audience from a table that had been placed in front of the grand stand and his brief introduction was the signal for a warm reception to the honored guest.

When Col. Kilbourne arose to speak, respectful silence followed the applause and after a sweep of the hand to indicate the upturned set of faces, he began a twenty minute speech in terms congratulatory for the unmistakable signs all about him of the rapid strides made in the building up of a great and prosperous center of industry. His remarks were punctuated by the short, crisp stories, with abundant humor attached to them, and points that illustrated more than argument the idea he wished to convey.

He compared the conditions of today with the time when the great northwest was the habitation of the tribes, and the restoration of what he considered one of the garden spots of the state from black swamp and wilderness. "The untold difficulties of the pioneers," he said, "has left us an heritage out of which has grown this splendid example of achievement, and we have shown that we will never cease in the way of building up a better condition of affairs and consequently, a higher civilization. Nothing will we let stand between what our forefathers have done and the ever increasing promise of grander and better days. We honor the memory of those sturdy men and women who trampled down every difficulty that lay in their paths and we will hand down to our children what was left to us in comparison.

"We are a people of different opinions and have many opposite views about the final accomplishment of results, but while we may branch off in our means and methods, it is an acknowledged fact that we are all drifting toward the same shore. We have a common love for our country, a common dream for her glorious future, and political differences do not tend to lead us astray from the one great principle uppermost in the mind of all—the upholding of our honor as a nation."

The closing remarks of Col. Kilbourne evoked a double tribute, and his sincere lament for the death of President McKinley was clothed in touching and eloquent expressions. The national tragedy cast a gloom over all, and obliterated every particle of political feeling, proving, as by no other means, that we are one people and as such mourn in sympathy with each other. To the old soldier, of which he was one in victory and defeat, he also paid a tender reminder, and marked the gradual falling off in the ranks of those who passed through the miseries and hardships of the civil war.

Honor, eloquence and pathos marked the all-to-brief address and the spontaneous applause which followed his final utterance was spontaneous and sincere. There were a few minutes left for introduction and hand shaking, but he refused to interfere longer with the sport which his talk had interrupted and was finally whisked away from the grounds followed by the cheers of the multitude.

Colonel Kilbourne was accompanied by Hon. W. L. Finley, of Kenton and Hon. L. B. McCarty, of Toledo, the latter gentleman being the Democratic candidate for attorney general of Ohio.

ENGINES

Get Together and Break Their Pilots.

Damage Slight and Traffic was Not Delayed.

The Little Accident Occurred in the C. H. & D. Yards—Heavy Work in C. H. & D. Machine Shops.

A collision in the yards yesterday between passenger train No. 6 and a freight mashed the pilots of engines 233 and 113 but the speed wasn't sufficient to do any great damage. Engine 201 was sent out with the passenger and the disabled engine taken to the C. H. & D. round house for repairs.

C. H. & D. Notes.

The boys in the machine shops are having plenty to do and extra hours are being put in that the disabled motive power may be rushed to completion. Engine 114 after being provided with a new set of flues was sent out with the local No. 9 not waiting to go on a trial trip. The 323 will leave the shops Saturday with an entire new dress. A new fire box and repairs has put the 286 in shape for a trial trip today. Switch engine No. 88, I. D. & W., was released yesterday. A new cab is being put on the 291, which was in the Toledo wreck, and the patched affair on the 210 will be replaced by a new one as soon as she can be spared from the road.

COLORED

Men Disappear With a Race Horse

That Had Been Attached in a Justice's Court.

Rider of the Animal Had Him Attached and Other Men Took the Speeder Out for a Little "Exercise."

Race horse owners and lessees are having plenty of trouble in this city, keeping out of the grasp of the law on account of attachment suits.

Yesterday afternoon, deputies John Overy and Peter Godfrey, of Justice Duffield's court, were detailed to serve a notice on one Julius Brown, the colored lessee of the running horse Osmun, entered at the races this week at the fair grounds, on complaint of Will Thomson, also colored, who has been riding the above named horse and claimed $15 to be due him. Brown refused to look at it as did the jockey and the latter sought the protection of the law. The horse was attached and taken to the Fisher stables on Spring street, with orders to hold until given other instructions. At an early hour this morning two colored men entered the Fisher stables and asked permission to exercise the horse. Permission was granted and neither the horse nor the men have been seen since. It is known that Brown's wife left today for Toledo and will meet Brown later in the season. The missing horse is owned by a man named Miller, of Lexington, Kentucky.

Another Case.

The race horse Alytha also entered at this week's races, has been attached by Justice Duffield's deputies on an affidavit filed by Howard White, who claims that the owner Dr. W. C. Boring, owes him a consideration in the sum of $25. Boring comes from Rockford.

REGIMENT

Will Lose a Popular Officer When Capt. Morrison

Receives the Papers Which He Has Applied to Gen. Gyger for. Would Like to Stay.

The resignation of Capt. Thos. Morrison, who has been in command of Co. K, Second regiment, ever since that company was organized and mustered into the Ohio National Guard, has not yet been accepted by Adjutant General Gyger, but as Capt. Morrison's business interests are now such that demand his entire and constant attention there is no doubt about the members of Co. K, and the members of the regiment generally, being soon called upon to part company with this popular and efficient officer. Capt. Morrison would like to remain in the regiment for his relations with Col. Ream and all of the staff and line officers and also with the officers and men of his own and every other company in the regiment have always and still remain the most pleasant and agreeable. The Second regiment never was better officered than it has been since its reorganization more than a year ago. Perfect harmony has been a feature of the relations between the officers and men and especially between the head of the regiment and the staff and line officers a feeling that was conspicuous by its absence for several years prior to and during the Spanish-American war. "Business is business," said Capt. Morrison when expressing his regret of having to retire from the service, "we have all of us been together at home and in camp enough to feel like one big family and I'd like to stay with Col. Ream and his staff as long as they are in the regiment but I can't do so now and give my business affairs the attention they demand."

FELL

Into Water Works Reservoir.

Tragic Ending

Of the Life of Prof. Zeno, the Aeronaut.

Dropped Into the Water Beneath His Heavy Canvas Parachute

And Drowned, Entangled in the Ropes, Before Assistance Could Reach Him—Relatives Notified.

The pleasures of the most successful county fair that has ever been held in Allen county were marred yesterday afternoon between 3:30 and 4 o'clock by a deplorable tragedy in which Prof. Zeno, one of the two aeronauts who made balloon ascensions from the fair grounds under the direction of Prof. John Knarr, lost his life by descending into the waters of one of the water works reservoirs, where he perished, entangled in the ropes of his parachute, before assistance could reach him.

There was a balloon race on the program yesterday and Prof. Zeno, as he was known professionally, and Charles Hawley had been engaged by Prof. Knarr to give the aerial performance. The ascensions were made shortly after 3:30 o'clock and were pronounced very successful by the enormous crowd of spectators who watched the two men soar skyward to a height of twelve or fifteen hundred feet. Both men joked over the race, each claiming that he would be the first to reach the earth again. When a short distance north of the fair grounds Zeno was seen to cut loose and descend slowly toward the earth and when he disappeared below the tree-tops the spectators felt certain that he had landed safely but were fearful of the descent Hawley was making for they had seen that he was unable to cut away from his balloon. He remained with the balloon until it settled down and reached the ground without accident.

Cries for Help.

were heard as Zeno descended near the ground. His parachute was sailing directly toward one of the water works reservoirs and before any of the spectators realized the danger he fell into the water and the heavy canvas parachute settled onto the surface of the water over him. He struggled desperately to free himself but when his lifeless body was dragged from the water he was still entangled in the ropes of the parachute.

Hawley, who had landed along High street some distance east of the water works, was informed by a boy that his partner was drowned and he hastened to the reservoir to assist the unfortunate man if possible. Reaching the scene he plunged into the water but did not swim to the parachute when he saw that it had settled down over Zeno. Aided by several men and boys who had hurried to the scene, Hawley constructed a rude raft of boards and shoved out into the water and succeeded in dragging the parachute to shore and when it was dragged upon the bank, the lifeless form of Zeno was found entangled in the ropes. He had evidently made no effort to get away from the parachute until after he had struck the water and then it was too late. Efforts were made to resuscitate the unfortunate man but they were fruitless and an ambulance was summoned and the remains were removed to the morgue, where hundreds of people flocked last night, anxious to see the remains.

Coroner Burton took charge of the case and sent telegrams to the wife and father of the deceased, the former being in Springfield, O., and the father being in the clothing business in Savannah, Ga. The deceased's wife is also an aeronaut and is in a hospital in Springfield suffering from injuries she sustained in an accident that befel her and her husband when they recently made an ascent there. She replied to coroner Burton's telegram stating: "Bury the remains there. Will notify his aunt."

Prof. Zeno's real name was Paul Hogue. He has been married twice and was married to the wife who is now in Springfield only a few weeks ago.

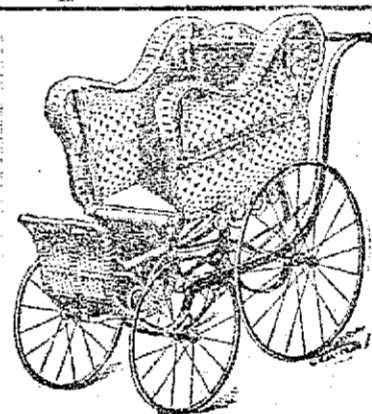

Hague's father telegraphed today, requesting that the remains be buried here and stating that he would write immediately.
